Did You Know?

According to decades of research, there are many positive benefits of arts education:

- The arts reach students who might otherwise slip through the cracks.
- The arts reach students with different learning styles.
- The arts create schools that are exciting places for learning and discovery.

In fact, low-income students with high participation in arts classes have a dropout rate that is five times lower than their peers with no arts classes.

For these facts and more, download the Arts Education Navigator e-book Facts & Figures, chock full of useful research.
